St. Mary's Home for Disabled Children

Embracing

COMFORT AND CARING

Message from the CEO

Early in 2009, Carl and Carole Anne Albero donated a Norfolk mermaid to St. Mary's Home for Disabled Children. Our mermaid graces the main entrance to the Home and was christened "Embrace" from a contest held to name our latest addition.

The concept of "embrace" is appropriate for the Home on so many levels. First, the name reminds us at St. Mary's that we embrace our values of integrity, quality and good stewardship. These values guide all the decisions we make for the children and young adults of St. Mary's.

Next, St. Mary's has been fortunate to continue to be embraced by community support. As health care reform moves forward, that support will be even more important. St. Mary's continues to explore ways to care for more people with disabilities and will rely on community support to expand our mission in service to those with severe disabilities.

Most importantly, St. Mary's and all those associated with the Home embrace the children here with compassion and expertise. Our professional clinical staff ensures the children get the best health care. The educational staff from Southeastern Cooperative Educational Programs does an excellent job of teaching the children. The support services staff ensures the home is safe and secure for the children 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

St. Mary's Home has a proud past and an exciting future. We appreciate your interest and your support as we embrace the serious responsibility of caring for the precious children of St. Mary's. Thank you for all you do for the children and young adults of St. Mary's Home.

WILLIAM C. GIERMAK CEO

Message from the President

The year 2009 at St. Mary's Home was one of celebration and commemoration. Sister Mary June celebrated 50 years of service to the children. I recall that she said, "It's all about love." The moment you walk into St. Mary's, that message can be found everywhere — in the joy expressed between a nurse and a child who heads out for summer camp; in the face of a therapist as a young boy rides his therapy bike down the hallway for the first time; and in the bittersweet words of a mother whose son is graduating and who spoke of the St. Mary's family who had been there for her family for more than 18 years.

On Dec. 8, 2009, St. Mary's commemorated 65 years of caring for children — most of those years, for children with physical and intellectual disabilities. The children's time is not spent idly, but rather in classrooms led by expert teachers, in the care of some of the region's top physicians from Children's Hospital of The King's Daughters, and in making unbelievable progress because of dedicated staff.

It is my special honor to serve as president of the Board of Trustees as the Board is seriously considering how St. Mary's can continue caring for the children when they reach young adulthood. I ask that you stay in close touch with St. Mary's as we make decisions that will affect families throughout Virginia. We will call on you for your advice because we know that you, like the Trustees, staff and Auxiliary Board, care about the children and young adults and want to enrich their lives with as many experiences as possible. Thank you.

ON THE COVER: Shanyla, who lives at St. Mary's Home, shares a quiet moment with clinical nurse specialist Gwendolyn G. Brown, MSN, RN, CPNC-PC, in front of "Embrace," St. Mary's mermaid. The statue was sponsored by Carole Anne and Carl M. Albero and created by artist Georgia Mason with the help of the children of St. Mary's Home. The mermaid arrived on Oct. 26, 2009, at St. Mary's Home, where she greets visitors at the entrance.

“The children are busy from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sometimes visitors are surprised to see just how busy it is at St. Mary’s Home, where children and young adults from across Virginia who have severe disabilities live, play and go to school, and where staff provide top clinical care around the clock.”

WILLIAM C. GIERMAK, CEO, ST. MARY’S HOME

About the Home

On Dec. 8, 1944, St. Mary's became a nonsectarian home for children who had no homes of their own or who needed a temporary place to stay while their fathers fought in World War II and their mothers were at work in war plants. A decade later, the Home's mission started to evolve as St. Mary's began caring for children with disabilities. In 2005, St. Mary's moved into a beautiful, spacious, state-of-the-art building near Sentara Leigh Hospital.

Today, about 300 full- and part-time staff care for up to 92 children and young adults, ages newborn to 21. Nursing staff provide reliable, professional 24-hour care, seven days a week. Nearly 20 medical specialists routinely come to the Home to see the children, and St. Mary's staff also take children to doctors' appointments as needed.

The children have regular physical therapy and enjoy activities such as swimming in the Home's therapy pool and taking field trips to the beach or museums. The occupational therapy services staff fit children for custom splints that will keep their limbs in alignment and maintain the children's wheelchairs and other equipment. The dietary service department prepares and delivers all meals. Support coordinators make sure the children receive appropriate services based on their individual needs.

No matter how medically fragile, every child at St. Mary's attends classes, either at the Home through a partnership with Southeastern Cooperative Educational Programs or at Norfolk and Virginia Beach public schools. The youngest children receive Early Intervention services at the Home.

While St. Mary's is a pediatric long-term-care residential facility, the Home also can help children who need short-stay care, for as few as 30 days, perhaps because of a family emergency or surgery requiring intensive post-operative physical therapy.

St. Mary's Home is affordable. The children and young adults qualify for Medicaid (or the U.S. Armed Services Tri-Care program, for military families) regardless of family income. United Way, grants and individual and corporate donations also help cover the cost of care.

Boat Builder Finds Another Purpose for His Passion

Bob Guess has been fascinated by the craft of boat-building since he was a 5-year-old child playing among the cedar shavings in his grandfather's shop. "I think the smell of the white cedar did something to me," he said. Now, in his own workshop at his Norfolk home, Guess builds detailed ships' models as well as children's play boats — a hobby that he uses to help the children and young adults of St. Mary's Home.

Guess has worked on models most of his life, in addition to building full-sized rowing and sailing boats. He patiently files, sands and pieces together small parts to create his beautiful, accurate models. He doesn't buy anything except raw materials. He makes his own fittings, even the tiniest of propellers.

After learning about St. Mary's Home through friends, he paid a visit to the children and left determined to do something to contribute. He donated some of his handiwork to the Auxiliary Board of St. Mary's 2009 auction to benefit the children, and he did so again in 2010. Said Guess: "Since I like to build models, I'm doing two things: I'm making myself happy, and I'm raising money for them."

Profiles

A Lifetime of Caring for Children

Sister Mary June Morin knew in the sixth grade that she had a calling to become a nun. One of 12 children from a French-Acadian family in northern Maine, Sister joined the Daughters of Wisdom right out of high school and spent seven years working at a children's clinic in Brooklyn before being sent south to St. Mary's Home. "If help was needed, that's where you went," she said.

Decades later, Sister still is dedicated to helping the children and young adults of St. Mary's Home. On Feb. 8, 2009, Sister celebrated the start of her 50th year at the Home. The Daughters of Wisdom had been taking care of children at the Home since early 1946, and Sister Mary June once was among 21 nuns who watched over the children they affectionately referred to as "holy angels," "holy innocents" and, sometimes, "holy terrors." Today, she is the sole nun remaining at the Home, where she has held many jobs, including doing laundry, teaching and arranging field trips.

"You say to yourself, 'These are children. They need your care. Why not give them the best care to help them reach their potential?'" Sister Mary June said.

THIS PAGE: Bob Guess demonstrates some of the tools he uses to build ships' models he donates to raise funds for St. Mary's Home. Guess and his wife, Patti Petty, also are members of The Guardian Society, which recognizes donors who have included St. Mary's in their estate plans, whether by will, trust, insurance or life income arrangement. “Our mission has changed as well as the children we serve, but for many of these 65 years, we have been very fortunate to have Sister Mary June as both our anchor and guiding light in showing us her comfort and caring for all the children.”

ST. MARY'S DIRECTOR OF SOCIAL WORK

Moments

Prom, Girl Scouts and more

Senior Master Sgt. John Borden Jr. was at Kunsan Air Base in South Korea when his daughter went to prom for the first time. But he still got to see the broad smile on Aly's face as her date held her hands and helped her move about in her wheelchair while a DJ played dance music. Aly was featured in an online video of the prom that Borden watched thousands of miles away from Virginia.

Students from Norfolk Academy decorated St. Mary's Atrium in an Asian-influenced style and acted as dates for the 2009 prom. St. Mary's staff provided food, put on the girls' makeup and danced a bit themselves. St. Mary's Auxiliary Board funded the tuxedo rentals and the DJ.

St. Mary's Home serves military families like Aly's through the U.S. Armed Forces' Exceptional Family Member Program. Borden said Aly receives good care and really enjoys prom and many other activities, such as being a member of St. Mary's Girl Scout troop. "She is getting so much attention that a single parent in the military could never accomplish," he said.

With small brushes and rollers — and a little help from a parent and St. Mary's staff — Jahmari and Amelia dabbed blue paint on the tail of one of Norfolk's newest mermaids. "The kids are going to put their magic into it," said artist Georgia Mason, who created the mermaid and invited children from St. Mary's to visit her home studio in July 2009 so they could see the work in progress and lend a hand.

Three months later, on Oct. 26, the fully finished, and very colorful, mermaid arrived at St. Mary's Home. She holds a child in her embrace as she welcomes people at the entrance of the Home, where children are embraced every day by comfort and caring. Her name? "Embrace," naturally, as suggested by Patsy House, a friend of the Home.

The mermaid came to the Home by way of a book. To celebrate St. Mary's 65th anniversary, the Home sponsored the publication in July 2009 of an updated edition of "There Goes a Mermaid! A Norfolk tale." The children's book by Lisa Suhay was inspired by the statues around Norfolk that are shaped like the city's mermaid symbol. At the Auxiliary Board's 2009 auction, Trustee Carl M. Albero and his wife, Carole Anne, bid $5,000 to provide the children of St. Mary's with their own mermaid. Mason used just part of the money to pay for materials, with the rest going to support the Home because Mason donated her time and talent.

Auxiliary Board

Auxiliary Board Enhances Children's Lives

Formed in 1950, the Auxiliary Board of St. Mary's Home is a group of dedicated volunteers who strive to fill needs the Home otherwise could not meet. Items the Auxiliary funded in 2009 included a laptop and DVDs for recreational therapy, scholarships for summer camp, physical therapy tricycles, two Hi-Lo Sleepsafer Beds and the Harbor Hollow Play Areas. The Auxiliary also sent a Thanksgiving fundraising letter, a longstanding annual tradition.

In February 2009, more than 200 people came to The Westin Hotel at Town Center in Virginia Beach for the Auxiliary's 4th Annual Auction and Gala, which netted nearly $50,000 — and a mermaid — for the children of St. Mary's Home.

YEAR IN REVIEW 09

September

- The International Order of Alhambra Padul Caravan #69, a service organization raised nearly $12,000 for St. Mary’s Home from its annual golf tournament.
- Employees of Mass Mutual/Commonwealth Financial Partners and FedEx Express volunteered at St. Mary’s Home on the United Way Day of Caring.

October

- More than 400 runners, walkers, volunteers and supporters turned out at Fort Story in Virginia Beach for St. Mary’s 21st annual 5K race, plus One-Mile Fun Run. The event raised about $24,000.
- Lynn Earle, director of nutrition services, and Suzanne Eason, supervisor of occupational therapy support services, were selected to present at the Navigating the Care of the Medically Fragile Child conference in Portland, Ore.
- Children, staff and teachers dressed up in costumes and paraded about the Home, an annual tradition organized by SECEP.

November

- Jo-Kell Inc., led by Suzy and Marty Kelly, continued to provide annual funding for St. Mary’s through employee giving programs. In 2009 alone, the Jo-Kell team raised more than $7,000 for the Home. “The company is really involved in giving back. ... (Our employees) naturally have the desire to help others,” Suzy Kelly said.

December

- On Dec. 8, St. Mary’s Home marked 65 years of caring for Virginia children.
- U.S. Army Corps of Engineers’ Norfolk District employees were among the many generous people who donated holiday gifts to the children. The Corps’ singing group performed for the children and staff.
- Several Santas visited the children, including Marlin “Mo” Patrick, a Dominion employee who has been coming to the Home every December for over a decade.

Norfolk's Harborfront Garden Club provided funding and some parents of children at the Home donated koi.

Looking Ahead: The St. Mary Charity House

St. Mary's Home is honored to have been chosen to receive the net proceeds from the Charity House at the Tidewater Builders Association's Fall 2010 Homearama. Please join us Oct. 16-31, 2010, at the showcase of homes in Norfolk's East Beach community along the Chesapeake Bay, and at the Preview Party on Oct. 15.

"We are proud that our Fall Homearama Charity House will help some of our most vulnerable children by giving them a place to call home, where their families can feel secure in knowing their medical and emotional needs will be addressed," said Bill Halprin, president of Tidewaters Builders Association.

For ticket information: Call 757.622.2208 ext.328 or visit www.homearama.tv.

BELOW: The Charity House, called "The St. Mary," was designed by Cox, Kliewer & Company and built by Scott Crumley of Crumley Group. The home's interior design was contributed by professionals from the International Interior Design Association.
